

To rewrite one's history one's path is similar to transforming all the elements of one's being. What happens is that one gets stuck in programs, conditions belief systems that operate in an unconscious format. They are not even aware of what they are doing, what has been programmed into them for years and years, it is like second skin to them, just going through it rather than actually seeing it observing it, making notations and moving on. This is why people get stuck as you say, they cannot even see where to begin.

It begins as a small child trying to please, help, perceive; live through small eyes, these eyes are so full with love and light the light eventually gets pushed down deep into the body, made smaller, this is to make room to fit the programming, eventually yes you are right, the light goes out and it has to be re lit as you say

This is the challenge,

At first it is as you are walking through the woods with no light, a deep darkness and you, you are tripping, bumping into and unable to see what is in the way

So, you go through this or choose not to so many of you fear the darkness, the darkness is an aspect of you it is just that you cannot find or locate the entrance to the woods. Hence the fear, yes you did that'

You can actually manipulate that darkness and shed your internal light to the spot you wish to focus, good, good as you bring it in front of you rather than having it encompass you, you can see it, observe it name it and then yes, file away.

The information that you received all these years is kept in your vault or you file cabinet as you mention. Analogies, yes

So how to start someone of the journey of this

Slowly and delicately

People can get caught up in the rawness of experience

Rather than seeking it observing it and healing it

Your emotion energy system is very delicate like strands they are so easily triggered and effected

You can come from the back body as you do, yes

This is the entrance.

And the three screens, I see what you do yes have you noticed the difference yes instantly

Your journey is grand

It will evolve and move forward as the growth continues

Centered awareness and consciousness simultaneously,

Walking into that

Yes, but others, that is okay

You are a force and they see that force that element,

They may not be able to touch it physically, but it is apparent and there, they look but know not what they see at that moment

Your job is to awaken that within them.

(Next channel)

Can we discuss the idea or concept of surrender, to let go of ones self a fullness must be allowed to enter

Many do not surrender and try to have some power over rather than just opening up to the fullness of all that is

Is it their fear?

Is the sense of unknowingness what I will be, the outcome, but through surrender is such abundance ah yes,

But the do not see that

They think they lose their power, rather than gaining the self which is the entire purpose here

As one gains the idea of the self in the essence of beingness then they are full and awaken, nothing moves them from their center

To be that is frightful in the earth plane, they are one out of many they will not fit into the system

How to react to that, be that

Run and operate from a system that is here, yet not here

Surrender. People think not of losing the war, but rather being the essence of self

Surrender to the program that thought that you are the center of yourself yes but connect to all that is in that surrender you see it all the vastness that is witnessed before you

Your opportunity to expand your consciousness seeing all that is

Your limited site is of egoic fear that you might lose something well my dear, no you do not lose you merely gain all

Open your arms to the fullness of that, receive that, the time is now do not fall deep into the darkness and the limited sense of self. Be the truest aspect that your soul body desires reach that point that essential being that is awakened to all, you have the answer to all, just come from the central core the internal link to all the information you need or seek be my dear be Shine as your light fills the hearts of many!